CHICAGO DERMATOLOGISTS EDUCATE DIVERSE GROUPS ABOUT SUN SAFETY AT MAYOR'S CUP SOCCER TOURNAMENT

Multi-cultural urban soccer families receive free sunscreen, educational materials and skin cancer screenings, including many first-timers.

(August 3, 2006—Chicago, IL)— Amidst avid soccer competition among hundreds of Chicago youth players and visits by soccer sensation Freddy Adu and Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley, a team of Chicago dermatologist members of the Women's Dermatologic Society (WDS) helped crowds practice sun safety at the recent Mayor's Cup Soccer Tournament in Lincoln Park. As part of the award-winning national community service outreach, Families Play Safe in the Sun, the local volunteer dermatologists provided free skin cancer screenings, sun safety educational materials and sunscreen to players, coaches and families, including many people who had never before experienced a skin cancer screening.

Chicago marked the seventh stop of a 15-city, three-year tour of the Women's Dermatologic Society's national sun safety educational campaign, which is made possible through a $1,000,000 grant from the 3M Foundation. This family and youth-oriented community outreach, which recently received the prestigious Gold Triangle award from the American Academy of Dermatology, promotes sun safety as a way of life. Private practice Chicago dermatologist and WDS Executive Board member Marianne O'Donoghue, MD hosted the local volunteer effort at the Mayor's Cup tournament.

To raise awareness about sun safety, Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley declared July 22 as "Families Play Safe in the Sun Day", and donned a 45 SPF sun protective hat at the event.

Highlights from the community outreach include:

- ✓ Volunteers conducted 108 skin cancer screenings, the majority of which were first-time experiences.
- ✓ 11,000 sunscreen samples distributed to the soccer community
- ✓ 79 children entered the national Families Play Safe in the Sun coloring contest
